Local service from a national company

Kingspan Environmental Service have national coverage in UK and Ireland with a team of fully qualified service engineers. Our service hubs are based in the South of England and Northern Ireland from which we provide first-class technical and administrative back-up. We will be a lifetime support for your investment and provide a 'peace of mind' solution to your ongoing service and maintenance needs.

Service and maintenance

We offer a range of service contract options to choose from to keep your equipment in the best order and reduce lifetime costs. Options include both fixed packages or bespoke maintenance programmes.

Genuine parts

Kingspan Environmental Service has direct access to every single component that goes into the manufacturing of our products.

This in-house availability not only gives us the advantage of avoiding any supply delays, but means our engineers will arrive on site with the right part at the right time.

Your product can be restored to normal operation with the minimum of downtime and inconvenience.

Tank emptying and desludging

Sewage treatment plants require the periodic emptying of the waste products that they are designed to filter out. Kingspan Environmental Service can schedule and manage this regular desludging process. We work closely with a licensed waste removal contractor who have been appointed following a selection process to meet our professional standards.
